Market commentary

The first quarter of 2020 has seen many notable changes including the US killing of an Iranian general in Iraq, improving trade relations between the US and China, an oil price war but most critically the spread of COVID-19. The last of these had a profound impact on economies across the world as populations locked-down and governments and central banks attempted to mitigate some of the immediate impacts on households and companies. Economic output across the world is being adversely impacted and in reaction markets fell sharply before staging a modest recovery in late March. Regional equity falls ranged from -10% in Japan to -25% in the UK. There is considerable uncertainty about the duration and impact COVID-19 will have and this led to very high levels of volatility as the markets attempt to quantify the financial impact. Until the longer term impact become clearer further periods of volatility could be seen. Bonds were more resilient than equities. Corporate bonds still saw some falls as investors considered how company cashflows would be impacted and whether this could hurt their ability to repay bond debt in the future. Government bond markets were some of the best performers as interest rates were cut and investors sought safer assets.
