Market commentary

Equity markets made exceptional gains in the quarter with many markets clawing back the large falls seen the previous quarter. North American, Real Estate and the Multi Factor holdings all saw gains of more than 10% while Japan lagged behind with gains of 4% over three months. Sterling strengthened against other leading currencies making the returns all the more impressive. The Parliamentary deadlock increased hopes of a softer Brexit. UK economic growth came in at the lowest rate for several years but the employment market remained strong. Against this backdrop of mixed economic data and political uncertainty the Bank of England kept rates on hold. Bond also saw healthy gains with Gilts outperforming UK corporate bonds. Monetary policy was softened in the US and Eurozone after mounting concerns seen at the end of 2018. Commodities were helped by stabilisation in the Chinese economy. Brent crude prices rose 27% as exporters tightened supply.
